Have you ever wanted to learn about preserving and canning your own food? Join The Master Food Preservers of Orange County and OC Parks at George Key Ranch Historic Park for three upcoming food preservation demonstrations. We will be learning about pickling in March, jams and jellies in June and tomato preservation in September. You will have the opportunity to learn about what materials are needed, to witness the steps involved in the process, and get some tips from the experts.

Event and parking are free, but reservations are required due to limited parking onsite. Visit the OCParks.com event calendar for more information.
